Peter Kousik, Director of Studies

Looking back over the past five years, you can recall with pride the strides that you have taken since you first walked through the doors of The Sacred Heart School of Montreal. During this time you have demonstrated qualities of leadership, a desire to establish high standards, the ability to work hard and play hard, and to develop a spirit of cooperation with your classmates. These qualities should serve you well in the world that you are about to enter. The pages of your Memory Book chronicle the events which took place in the School over the last academic year, enjoy its contents and remember that you were an important part of the graduating class of 2002. Congratulations in your future endeavours, but never forget that "once a Sacred Hearter, always a Sacred Hearter".

Rosanne Del Torto, Director of Students

Dear Class of 2002,
This is not the first graduation comment I write for you. I wanted to say something very "special" to you. I wrote and re-wrote and had a final copy ready. Until I watched the movie "Legally Blonde", and the words of Reese Witherspoon at the end of the movie struck me as being exactly what I wanted to say to you.
"...It is with passion, courage of conviction, and a strong sense of self that we take our next steps into the world. Remember that first impressions are not always correct."
You must always have faith in people but most importantly, you must always have faith in yourself. Good luck, girls, I will miss you!

Abid Salman, Business Administrator

To the Graduating Class of 2002
Congratulations! Your hard work has been rewarded and you are now a proud member of the graduating class of 2002. Take with you the fond memories of your fellow graduates and students, administration, faculty and staff at Sacred Heart because you will cherish these as you go forward to the next stage in your lives and careers.
The environment you leave behind remains strong not only because you have been a successful participant in it for the last five years but also because of the traditions and values embodied in the Sacred Heart experience, as articulated in the Five Goals.
Come back to visit your roots and to keep in touch with old friends. Good luck and God bless.

"Once a Sacred Hearter always a Sacred Hearter"

This year we sadly say goodbye to three retiring teachers who have been an integral part of the Sacred Heart School of Montreal for over three decades. Their sense of tradition and dedication began long before their teaching careers. They are Sacred Heart alumnae who have passed on to thousands of young women the values instilled in them from their Sacred Heart education.

With love, appreciation and gratitude for your caring, devotion and wisdom, we wish you every happiness in your retirement, and we will miss you.

MISS DE MELLO

taught at Sacred Heart from 1970-2002

Entering Miss de Mello's classroom is a formidable experience. She creates a world where nothing exists but beautiful poetry and correct grammar. We will forever remember: "the Bard is the master of the universe", "to whom", "not is not a verb". Her fiery passion for English literature and the English language sparks the desire to continue to uncover the beauty of knowledge.

Students learn early that arguing is fruitless. They also learn that a well-timed joke may leave her in stitches for hours. Her classroom atmosphere reflects her life - a mixture of intense passion for the arts and bouts of raucous laughter.

Mme Habachi has been promoting the French language and the development of young ladies at Sacred Heart for over three decades. Her students cherish that she makes them feel special. Her pet names, "ma petite princesse", "mon petit bunny", "mon petit ange", "mon chou à la crème", will always be remembered and treasured.

Her students are her children. She takes tremendous pride in their achievements and provides comfort in times of need. There is softness in her scoldings and love in her teachings.

MME HABACHI

taught at Sacred Heart from 1968-2002

MRS. WILSON

taught at Sacred Heart from 1970-1973
1982-2002

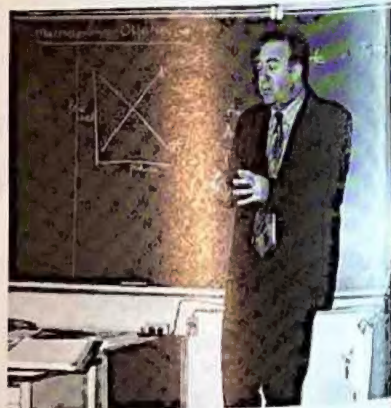

Mrs. Wilson has taught her students everything from deciphering complicated mathematical concepts to making bean bag frogs and teddy bears. She teaches in the same manner with which she approaches life - with a friendly smile and infinite patience. All questions are welcomed and she explains clearly and kindly until everyone understands.

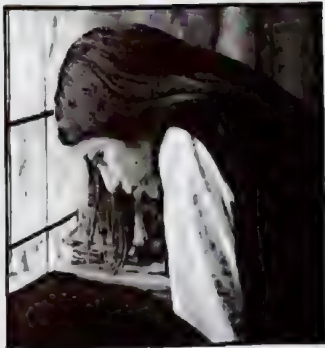

Through her devotion she has always embodied the values of a Sacred Heart education and has taught by example.

This school was on top of a hill so that God could see everything that went on. It looked like a cross between a prison and a church and it was.

-Quentin Crisp

In a magical place upon a hill stood a house with a homey atmosphere. Sounds of laughter and sisterhood echoed within its walls. Everyone contributed to junior and senior games, house skits and house boards, with impressive results, but most of all, we had fun.

Dearest Sheldonites,
your spirit and devotion has convinced me that Sheldon is, by far, the best house. I am truly proud of being your house head and can't imagine what this

Tanya Castelino

In Sec I, it seemed like the next five years would last an eternity. Looking back, they only lasted for a blink of an eye. Mommy, Daddy, and Baba, without you I never could have succeeded and become the young woman I am today. I love you. To all my teachers, thank you for the gift of knowledge. And, of course, to my friends: Julie: love you forever, Raissa: my sibester, Jess: twelve years and more to come, Issa: tight for life. CK, TR, AK, AH, VC, HW, CS, EB, LS, TP, AF. Thanks for making my time at Sacred Heart the experience of a lifetime.

Amanda Cavaleri

Two hours before the deadline typical! These five years have gone by so quickly such a blur but some moments are never forgotten. To my friends who made an impact on my life: Europe trip, Mont Ste Anne, Sunday Nights Shopping, Midnight Floats And Corretos wouldn't have been the same without you. To my Actress, I'll see you in NYC in ten. Mom, Dad, Adam, and Andrea: Thanks for encouraging me to stand up for myself. The hugs got me through.

Elisa Clanci

First and foremost I'd like to thank my family: mom, dad, and my brother, Anthony. I love you and you mean the world to me. To all my friends, thanks for the memories. Vi Amo Tutti and you hold special places deep in my heart. To the class of 2002 lots of luck and always remember to live life with a smile everyday and life will be beautiful in every way.

Vanessa Clarke

Did you feel that? Moses, Gala, Anne of Green Gables, field hockey, I AM SOBORED! Jennifer Elvidge

The S.H.S.M experience has been interesting. Between Ms. De Mello's Shakespeare classes and Gym aerobics, there has never been a dull moment. I have learned many things, not always academic, but always something. Some advice for the grads: If all we have learned is forgotten then our time here has been in vain. Adieu, Parting is such sweet sorrow.

Cynthia Ann Fazzari

Four years have gone by so quickly. SHSM has changed me in many ways. Stephie-paesani! Thanks-Love you! B-HIVE-CHOMAGE! AW-Math class JOKES! Special thanks to you Marco, the best friend I ever had, I love you. These doors are closing, and the special times are just memories. But new doors=new life=new memories. Look to the future, but never forget the past.

Lydia Lawrence

For the laughter, the tears, and the smiles. For the patience, the struggles, and the fire. For an outlandish lunch table, for a Sugar Babe, and a beautiful gift called Sabina, it was worth the while. To this school I am forever grateful for giving me the renowned pleasure and opportunity to share with all of them, myself.

Roubina Liberian

SECONDARY V RETREAT

"The power of one is above all things the power to believe in yourself often well beyond any latent ability you may have previously demonstrated"

-Bryce Court

With "The Power of One" as our theme, the class of 2002 had the pleasure of spending our final Sacred Heart retreat at the Jesuit Priest retirement home in Jerome. The experience was one to remember and for some, truly liberating. Both pleasant and a little sad, we spent two days watching movies, playing games, eating candy, and writing heartfelt messages to our classmates. Thank you to Mr. Hammett and Ms. Mastro for organizing this trip, as well as to Ms. Torto and Mrs. Brooks for honouring us with their presence.

-Vanessa C.

MOST LIKELY TO...

Alexandra Adam: Most likely to try to delay her baldness without success.

Blair Adam: Most likely to become a hand model.

Cindy Agullar: Most likely to join the UN to be a doctor with a machine gun in a war zone while putting out her own line of cosmetics.

Nikkid Arvanitakis: Most likely to strut into her office as the female version of Dr. Phil, while juggling her children's schedules from the aestheticians to the hockey tournaments.

Simrin Aulakh: Most likely to wear her contacts due to her masochistic tendencies.

Alexandra Barnabe: Most likely to dissect the next guy she stalks on the bus.

Claire Bider-Hall: Most likely to drop out of university, audition for Slump and get rejected because she refuses to wear tight clothing.

Chloe Boone: Most likely to marry Bono.

Evelyn Bourassa: Most likely to become a sexologist.

Sabine Buerkle-Shriltz: Most likely to hunt down the man who can buy her a $750 000 diamond ring and have the perfect life.

Tanya Castellino: Most likely to live in an igloo sporting an "I LOVE CANADA" t-shirt and convert to Judaism.

Amanda Cavalieri: Most likely to win a lifetime supply of Doritos, stock a log cabin in the tundra with them, emerge two years later to restock only to find out that lifetime supplies only apply to people who eat less than ten bags a day.

Melissa Clend: Most likely to become a philosopher in the field of love.

Vanessa Clarke: Most likely to burst out laughing at the altar, while exchanging vows with Matt Damon.

Clarissa De Souza: Most likely to work at Athlete's World, own an entire wardrobe of Nike apparel, dye her hair blonde to match her personality and break a brush while brushing her hair.

Kassandra Eberwein: Most likely to do something great and not get acknowledged for it.

Jennifer Elvidge: Most likely to become a crabby old woman with one hundred cats.

Cynthia Fazzari: Most likely to marry a Minghua Bro and have her own acrylic nail company.

Iona Fournier-Tombs: Most likely to forget how to speak English the minute she leaves Sacred Heart and spend the rest of her life belting out French swear words at small children.

Sabrina Garuffi: Most likely to break into Ms. Del Torio's house and steal all her make-up.

Claudia Gerarduzzi: Most likely to become Wonder Woman.

Christina Getsios: Most likely to share a loft with Lisa in Soho all the while balancing out her acting career and her eccentric boyfriend living in London.

Jackie Guy: Most likely to become a millionaire at 24, burn out and buy a hot pink convertible and drive around in it sporting a feather boa and a side ponytail.

Theresa Hankins-Palmer: Most likely to be on "Cops".

Valerie Hanna: Most likely to be the truest to her hair color and max out her credit card on "certain things".

Raisa Harasymowycz: Most likely to dye her hair blonder and be permanently seated on her trusty computer chair, chatting away on MSN and ICQ.

Anna Hatzihristidis: Most likely to trip over her wedding dress, fall down, tumble down the aisle, get up and ask to start over again.

Lisa Henderson: Most likely to become a popular socialite in Soho, New York, and still trek back to Montreal for weekly visits to the West.

Erica Henriques: Most likely to write the Encasms in a self-help column for the Canadian version of the National Enquirer Magazine.

Summer-Marie Joseph: Most likely to become a rich orthodontist and spend her entire salary on Mac make-up.

Sarah Kemerer: Most likely to trip over her own train at her wedding, move to Nantucket and live on a farm with a sheep dog named Mike.

Aisha Khan: Most likely to marry Iverson and become a shesha manufacturer.

Catherine Kishly: Most likely to memorize the North American index of Nutritional Information on every item of food.

Anna Kuskowski: Most likely to say maybe next year when asked to become Mrs. BCBG boy.

Cheria Kyres: Most likely to devote her life to finding a man who is taller than she is.

Natasha Lam: Most likely to fall in love with every man on the planet.

Lydia Lawrence: Most likely to become queen of some unknown country, continue to be infatuated with some "pretty boy" every other day and remake Gone With the Wind.

Roubina Liberian: Most likely to fail all her classes at Dawson because she will spend all her time playing cards.

Julia Lo Basso: Most likely to live in every single country of the world.

Jennifer Malo: Most likely to be the only person in university who still believes in prince charming, find him, thus living happily ever after.

Stephanie Markarian: Most likely to win the mother of the year award, become a Little Mermaid impersonator while cooking on her own cooking show.

Stephanie Mauret: Most likely to get bored of the clubbing scene when she's 50, start up the coolest senior citizens club, while inventing her own drink.

Kate McKendy: Most likely to run 15 km in a one piece suspender spandex on Middlebury College's longest outdoor leisure trail of North America.

Kimberly Miller: Most likely to find and marry Nathaniel Marx, become a resident of Djibouti and be kicked out of college for having too much of an opinion.

Kylene Murrell: Most likely to marry a man with longer hair than hers and over analyze her own death.

Katherine O'Brien: Most likely to be called the wrong name for the rest of her life along with always forgetting her school supplies.

Erin O'Donnell: Most likely to die laughing at her own unfunny jokes.

Clare Pollock: Most likely to become a business executive just to wear the clothes.

Melissa Quinto: Most likely to have high cholesterol at age 20, living in an apartment decorated in pink with pictures of her "other" friends.

Sharini Ratheenthiran: Most likely to become a movie critic.

Tanya Reda: Most likely to marry Nick Valensi, force him to quit smoking and get him hooked on organic foods.

Cathy Reilga: Most likely to use up the world's supply of Sun-In.

Sonia Reilga: Most likely to buy her own tanning salon and be the best customer.

Meagan Robinson: Most likely to become a professional "gold digger".

Maryann Rusnak: Most likely to become more American than Americans themselves, change her name to Coco, become the most successful business woman, and invest in a lobster tank.

Bamlnes Sabaratnam: Most likely to burn herself eating hot chilli peppers.

Laura Sacco: Most likely to be disowned by her parents and therefore be adopted by Stote's parents, along with the rest of Canada.

Amelia Sarglsson: Most likely to have grey hair by the age of 25 because of stress.

Erin Savage: Most likely to organize a Catholic Church group at Jay-Peak.

Natasia Schumacher: Most likely to never sit through one full class in CEGEP, give up school for the runway and live the life of the rich and famous.

Lisa Sew: Most likely to become the first female sports announcer for the Habs.

Neelu Shanker: Most likely to fall into a delusional state of mind and think the world is ruled by anime characters.

Stefania Simeone: Most likely to be on a reality show.

Luxmie Srikandarajah: Most likely to wander around aimlessly talking about cats and dogs.

Christina Stote: Most likely to make the strangest noises at the most unexpected times.

Heather Townsend: Most likely to save a bunny from being road-killed, then kill it by hugging it to death.

Erika Tucker: Most likely to spend her summers eating cherries in the wheat fields of Saskatchewan.

Hannah Warren: Most likely to become the first professional blue haired belly dancer.

Arianne Weekes: Most likely to become teacher's pet.

Magda Woszczyk: Most likely to move to Nashville, become a country singer and be voted Rodeo Queen.

SECONDARY I RETREAT

Early on a Friday morning, seventy-eight students, accompanied by Mr. Hammett, Ms. Mastro, and Mrs. Stewart, piled onto a bus headed for L'Ermitage Ste. Croix. Excited, we all gathered in the retreat house and began watching the movie. We learnt friendship, trust, and respect towards those of different cultures.

After having discussed the movie with friends and teachers, we partook in a game which helped us to get to know one another better.

After the morning activities, it was time for a delicious lunch prepared by the sisters of L'Ermitage. It was then time for more fun! Outside we talked, laughed, and shared stories. When Ms. Mastro called us in, it was time to make our 2005-2006 graduation banner. Once the beautifully decorated banner was finished, we sang songs, accompanied by Mr. Hammett on the guitar!

We all had a wonderful time and will never forget our first Sacred Heart retreat!

SECONDARY II RETREAT

"My friends and I are not so perfect, so we are perfect for each other."

-Anonymous

Two yellow school buses arrive at Hermitage Ste-Croix. One fifth of the Sacred Heart family enters their welcoming destination, prepared for a day of fun away from their "studious" lifestyles. Watching thematic religion movies, discussing our views of the world, eating delicious dishes, playing in the autumn sun, and singing joyful hymns bring the members of the Sacred Heart family closer together.

Our sincere gratitude to Mr. Hammett, Ms. Mastro, and Ms. Nish for their support throughout the day. Without their presence, this day would not have been possible. We now wait with great anticipation for our future retreats.

SECONDARY III RETREAT

As we, the class of 2004, made our way to the famous Ermitage Ste. Croix, the mood was as bright and cheerful as the big yellow bus in which we rode. Intent on the opportunity to trade a day of classes for one of songs and laughter amidst the beautiful winter wonderland that surrounded us, we approached the building, all too eager to get inside and begin. After many tears were shed over poor Simon Birch, a delicious lunch was had in the cafeteria, where French fries were eaten Sacred Heart style (forks, ladies!). Once lunch was over it was time for Kodak moments on the scenic grounds of the Ermitage, and then back inside for some spiritual meditation, which proved to be quite interesting. The day came to a close with the singing of songs, accompanied by Mr. Hammett and his trusty guitar. Finally, we boarded the buses, although it seemed that the singing never really stopped. A good time was had by all.

Candace Fridman

SECONDARY IV RETREAT

Ms. Mastro and Mr. Hammett have done it again! After three years of wonderful retreats, we had another one. We are very grateful to them for always making our retreats fun and interesting. Mme. Drouin accompanied us as well. We tied her to a tree. She was a great sport. It was Mme. Drouin's first retreat. We hope it was as memorable for her as it was for us. We did the usual things. The movie was enlightening. Our singing to "Lean on me" had improved since last year. The retreat was particularly special because we did something different. Each secondary IV student wrote a letter to herself. It was a letter of reflection and contemplation. We will be receiving our letters at the beginning of the next school year. As always our retreat taught us more about ourselves and each other. Thank you Ms. Mastro, Mr. Hammett, and Mme. Drouin.

SPORTS DAY

On September 25th, 2001, the Sacred Heart School joined its sister schools, ECS, The Study, Trafalgar, and Villa Maria, for the annual "Girls for the Cure" walk. Together, the five schools raised over $225 000, which went to the Breast Cancer Research and Services Centre at McGill University Affiliated Hospitals. Thanks to Ms. Del Torto and the committee: Stefania Simeone, Rita Forlini, Meagan Malone, and Kathleen Koufos, for a job well done. You go girls!

CARNIVAL 2002

TALENT IN WONDERLAND

Jitters, by Canadian playwright David French, tells the story of frazzled Toronto actors, directors, and crew members. They rehearse an original play, "The Care and Treatment of Roses", in the hopes of luring a hotshot New York agent. Jitters operates as a play within a play, as we go backstage, seeing the actors in their natural habitat, as well as in their characters' personae. The theatre process is put on a platter and the audience becomes part of the action, as the fourth wall is broken and the characters' antics fill the entire room.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

It feels like only yesterday I went with my mother - and grandmother, if you can believe it - to Warren's on Sherbrooke and Claremont in Westmount to buy my uniform. It was a momentous occasion, a family affair. I think that even my aunt and uncle were invited over on the lazy August afternoon so that I could model the tartan for them. Then I stored the Blackwatch kilt, the cotton vest, the white Pierre Marie blouses, and the navy blue knee socks in the bottom drawer of my bureau, and for the first and only time in my life, I anxiously awaited Labour Day to herald the start of the school year. My new clothes smelled like potpourri for the first week of classes, but like all Sec. I students, I felt mature and sophisticated in that uniform. It was evidence to the world that I had made it to the big time. Now, my frayed Pierre Marie blouses have been handed down to my sister and those early days of excitement and nervousness have long since passed. The time has come, to paraphrase Mr. Carroll's Walrus, for me to set aside my Sacred Heart uniform, as it has indeed for all of us in this graduating class.

For the past five years, we have shared in the frustrations, disappointments, achievements and triumphs of a communal education. In the process, we have learned that this experience, while always enriching, is not always easy. Nonetheless, we all - students, teachers, and parents - rose to the challenge. The task was never too daunting, and our teachers and parents never failed - in their own way - to try their best for us. And we must never fail to try our best from this day forward.

As graduates of this school, we are thrice blessed. Our Sacred Heart education has instilled in each of us faith, discipline, and knowledge. We leave here with faith in ourselves, faith in the power of friendship, and faith in the ability of a single person to promote goodness in the world. We leave here disciplined in manner, work ethic, and study habits, assets that will serve us well as we continue living and learning. We leave here versed in history, science, languages, and literature, we leave here experienced in the joys and pains of human relationships, and we leave here acutely aware of how desperately this ailing planet is in need of our help.

Our grandparents graduated from high school into a world in the throes of a savage war, our parents graduated from high school into the political uncertainty of the Cold War, and we now graduate from high school into a world forever changed by the events of September 11th.

At the beginning of this school year, we learned from F. Scott Fitzgerald that "Whenever you feel like criticizing anyone, just remember that all the people in this world haven't had the same advantages that you've had." We also learned from the author of The Great Gatsby that it is our responsibility, as people who have had the advantage of an education, of a Sacred Heart education, to "stand at moral attention." We must put the privilege of our instruction to good use. We must use it to better ourselves, our communities and, we hope, the world at large. The diploma that each of us holds today is an invitation to try our best, an invitation to change the face of a world in need of repair. As we have learned, so must we act.

But what now, fellow graduates? What now that our uniforms are in the closet, forever?

There is a passage spoken by Helena in A Midsummer Night's Dream that goes:

The sisters, vows, the hours that we have spent,
When we have chid the hasty-footed time
For parting us, .... O, is all forgot?
All school-days friendship, childhood innocence.

For the class of 2002: no, not all will ever be forgotten, least of all the friendships we have forged within these walls. How easy and comfortable some of them were, like slipping into a pair of old jeans; how difficult and disturbing others, birthed from disagreement and tears. Together, we have grown out of crayons, and together, we have grown into perfume. We are soul sisters, and part of you pours out of me in these lines. Who can forget the music of our laughter echoing in the halls, or the memory of our cake auctions, retreats, and grad? Indeed, each of us is entwined, someway, somehow, in the fibre of the others, beings, and while some faces and memories may one day be swallowed by time, the power of the love and friendship that we all hold in our hearts will never wane. Now, as a friend speaking among friends, I say let us look joyfully to the future and gratefully to the past. Let each one of us look inside herself at the tremendous potential, the power for good, the - dare I say it - power of one, which lies within us all. Let us have faith in that power as we step into the future. It only takes a glimpse of it to believe in it and set it free.

After attending a very informative crashcourse at the JoAnn's yearbook camp, we thought that making a yearbook would not be so hectic. At times we were right - at times we were wrong. In the end, we pulled through and completed what we now hold dear to us - "Memories from the Heart 2002". It is not only a book with pages and pictures - it is a collection of memories and experiences binded with warmth and love. A special thank you to Lisa Sew, Kimberly Miller, Elizabeth Lantosh, Christina Zakem, and Tara Wong for making our lives a little easier. It was greatly appreciated. Thank you Ms Bichsel for keeping us on track and dealing with our perfectionism. This yearbook could not have been created without your help. We wish the 2003 editors the best of luck!
